Injunction Against F. B. Hutchins Is Not Dissolved.

Justice John H. Watson, acting as chancellor in county court this forenoon, refused to dissolve an injunction issued several days ago preventing F. B. Hutchins from interfering in any way with the farm or farm crops of C. H. Taft of Middlesex. Hutchins and wife sold the farm to Mr. Taft sometime ago for $3,500 and he alleges that under the agreement he was to be allowed to harvest certain crops on the farm. Taft opposed Hutchins and prayed for an injunction restraining the defendant from interfering with the farm management, the injunction being granted after a hearing. The defendant made answer and asked for a hearing that the injunction be discontinued but Justice Watson refused to grant the request. Taft is represented by Attorney H. C. Shurtliff and the defendants by Attorneys William White and E. M. Harvey.

Alaska's Verdant Islands.

The island of Attu, at the end of the Aleutian chain, is not far from Asia. From north to south Alaska reaches almost as far as from Canada to Mexico.

This mighty territory is a world in the variety of its lands and waters. It is a country of seas, lakes and rivers and of almost as many islands as the empire of Japan. It has a vast continental mainland, with mountains and valleys, rolling plateaus and great lowland plains. I traveled a thousand miles through rocky islands in going from Seattle to Skagway and later passed through the Aleutian archipelago, which extends from the end of the Alaskan peninsula about as far westward as the distance from the Atlantic ocean to the Mississippi river. The island of Kodiak is as big as Porto Rico, and Prince of Wales island is as large as Connecticut. All of these islands are green from one year's end to the other, and some have a vegetation as dense as that of Hawaii.—Christian Herald.

Light Reading.
"Do you read much?" she asked of him.

"A great deal," he replied. "But it's mostly light reading."
And when some one told her that he read gas meters for a living she gashed her teeth in wild but helpless indignation.—London Telegraph.

Poor Fare.
"What came before the literary club this afternoon, my love?" asked Mr. Dibble at dinner.
"Oh, 'The Merchant of Venice,' and some of the worst sandwiches I ever ate," answered Mrs. Dibble.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

To prevent the juices of pies running over, spread a thin rim of butter around the under crust at the edge before putting on the top crust. The juice will not escape and the flavor of the pie will be improved.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Among Brookfield visitors in the city today were Miss Hannah Bjorn, Mrs. Clarence Little, Lester Stoddard and Joseph Nichols.

A. M. Garrity, who has been visiting friends on South Main street for two weeks, left this noon for his home in Claremont, N. H.

C. F. Smith, auctioneer, was in Lebanon, N. H., last Saturday holding an auction sale of valuable real estate in the center of the town for Dr. Haselton.

Mr. Merrill is a graduate of Goddard seminary 1913, and now holds a responsible position with the J. L. Gleason Co., electrical contractors of Boston, and has been at work for the past few months on some big jobs in New Bedford for the Mead, Morrison Co., and the Morse Twist Drill Co.

Novel Use For Gunpowder.

"Early in the sixties of the last century," writes Rev. Fuller Mills, a Welsh clergyman, "I was a boy behind the counter of what was known as the company's shop at Abertillery. Among the collier customers who came to the shop was a tall, well developed man known as Dick Stevens or Stephens.

"He was a member of the prize ring or the pugilistic fraternity, which was very popular in those days. . . . Dick Stevens was matched to fight Ianto Catchesman and was preparing for the fight when he came to the shop for his weekly requirements. . . . He generally asked for an ounce or two of gunpowder. I wondered at this, and my curiosity was aroused.

"I asked what he used it for. His reply was: 'I mix it with my gravy when I have my dinner and swallow it. It prevents the flesh from easily puffing under the hard blows of an opponent. The cuts and bruises are not so hurtful and heal more easily.'

The Gentle Art of Smiling.

A mother had a little girl, her first child, who seemed to have been born with a scowl. Perfectly well, still she had a morose disposition which she seemed as though nothing could alter. When a second child was born the mother made a rule that no one should look at the baby without a smile. With the imitation of childhood the baby at once began, even in her early weeks, to smile back, and as she grew, and the rule still held in the home, she developed into what every one who knew her called "the smiling baby" and grew up with the sunniest disposition, a joy to every one. Now, what that mother did any mother can do. A child may actually inherit a serious, even a sullen disposition, yet these may be crowded out while they are undeveloped by the habit of cheerfulness.—Woman's Home Companion.

Awry.
"Wat ees eet zat means your English word 'awry'?" asked the French girl, newly landed on these shores.
"Why," replied the walking dictionary, "it means crooked, disheveled. If my hat is awry it's tipped on one side, or if you apply it to my necktie it means mussed up. In what connection did you hear it?"

But she was frowning violently and muttering: "Ah-h-h! Zat beast! I was sure he meant to insult, but never did I believe eet was so bad!"

"Why, what on earth happened to you?"

"I ride in ze tram. I say to ze conductor, 'Please to say to me w'en we stop at ze Forty-second street.' And he smile at me so—and he say to me, 'A' r'it'!"—New York Post.

A touring car operated by Thomas Carroll of North Main street bumped into a Massachusetts car in the business section today, a mishap which resulted in a badly jammed mudguard on the Vermont auto. No other damage was done.

Miss Harriet Gregory, who has been taking a two weeks' vacation from her duties as bookkeeper in the Massachusetts Mutual life insurance office, resumed her duties this morning after visiting friends in Burlington, Queen City park and Williamstown.

Mrs. George Tupper resumed her duties in the A. P. Abbott Co. store this morning after spending two weeks visiting Mr. Tupper in St. Albans and also visiting relatives in Braintree. Mr. Tupper, who accompanied Mrs. Tupper to Barre last evening, returned to St. Albans this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thomas and daughter, Georgia, of Graniteville, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Snow of Westerville, Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Bellows and daughter, Helen, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dickey and two daughters, Lucie and Arlene, and Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Whitcomb and son, Harold, all of East Barre, returned last night to their homes after having been entertained since Friday at Mr. Dickey's cottage at St. Albans Bay. The party got some nice catches of fish.

As one of the Barre Steam laundry teams was turning out in order to avoid colliding with a team and automobiles running toward North Barre Saturday afternoon the rear wheels caught on to the rear wheels of Joseph Ball's team that was hitched to a telephone pole in front of the Red Cross Pharmacy. Before the laundry team could be stopped the Ball wagon had been dragged around so that the team was headed about and had pulled the wagon from the front wheels, bending the king bolt and cracking one shaft. The horse on the Ball team did not make any effort to run, so the damages were slight.

On Saturday evening Barre had all the appearances of a floating city for about 30 minutes. Old Judge Pivler turned on the hose, so to speak, flooding North Main street from Washington street to Depot square. All along the street boards were put out to help the pedestrians cross into the middle of the street, but the rain had been falling but a few minutes when the boards became but driftwood, washing along with the current of the stream. Passersby would start from Depot square and try to cross over to the other side of the stream and finally walk until they reached Washington street before they could find a place to cross.

Dr. V. C. Goodrich was driving through lower Elm street this forenoon when the front axle of his carriage suddenly broke in two. The physician was thrown to the ground and the horse appeared to be on the point of bolting when Fred S. O'Connell, who was passing that way, put the animal in tether. Dr. Goodrich escaped injury, but several bottles in his medicine case will not be used for medicine any more. The few people who witnessed the mishap thought the doctor had a lucky escape. A few years ago Dr. Goodrich lost a wheel from his carriage while driving on South Main street. At that time Mr. McConnell happened along and caught the wheel.

The civic department of the Barre Woman's club will hold their third flower show in the Church street school building Thursday and Friday afternoons of this week from 2 until 6 o'clock. Thursday morning from 9 until 12 o'clock the building will be open for the receiving of flowers. The main flower of the show will be the sweet pea. There are 14 classes for this flower, prizes being awarded for 12 sprays in different colors and for mixed bouquets. The committee in charge prefer to furnish vases, as the returning of vases to owners after the exhibit consumes considerable time, but if you do bring your own receptacles for arrangement of flowers, won't you kindly see that they are called for Saturday morning. The committee also requests that in cutting flowers for the exhibit they be cut with stems as long as possible. While this exhibit will be devoted to the sweet pea, all other flowers in bloom at this time are earnestly desired.

Card of Thanks.
I wish to thank the firm of Leclair & McNulty and their employees for their kind and generous contribution, also the many friends who have helped me through my long illness.

Much testimony centering around the personality of the young woman was introduced by supporters of the proposed appointment. Miss Smith is 22 years of age.

A long cry from the oxen-hauled loads that figured in the transportation of lumber from Orange and Topsham in other days are the motorized methods which are being employed to bring 100,000 feet of dressed lumber from West Topsham to the shipping point in North Barre this week. A local trucking company, which operates a number of motor tractors, has contracted to do the work and at the present rate of carrying 12,000 feet per day, the work will be finished in five time. One tractor is required to haul another motor truck and a lumber wagon, all three being laden with 6,000 feet. Two trips to the Topsham mill are made daily. Appearing second from the lead in the busy procession that passes through the city daily is a motor truck in which the power is not used, although there is a man aboard to use the brakes whenever necessary.

No Law's Delay Here.
In Perak, in the Malay peninsula, lawyers find no business, for a modified form of trial by ordeal decides all disputes. In place of the legal practitioner the pleader is a native boy who is assigned to one or the other of the sides and is given a bamboo tube, in which is sealed the pleading of the person or party whom he represents. When all is ready two stakes are driven into the bed of a stream, and by aid of a bamboo pole the heads of the two boys are submerged at the same time. By grasping the stakes they are enabled to remain under water for quite awhile after their natural inclination would bring them to the surface, but at last one of them gives in and, releasing his hold of the stake, comes to the air. He is immediately seized, and the tube he holds is cast aside. The other lad is led ashore, his tube opened, and the document contained therein stands as the decision in the case.
